

Both the economy and technology are changing rapidly. Agility is needed for an organization to adapt to change, and agile thinking must be fostered and realized across the organization. Developing agile thinking will help ensure your organization doesn't get left behind, unable to compete in a market that is constantly changing.

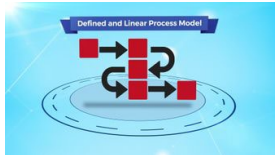

The Agile methodology harnesses the power of small self-directed teams to move and adapt quickly and easily, using short iterations to allow them to stay focused on rapid, satisfying results.

We encourage you to learn about this topic. Army e-Learning, Percipio, has several resources that can assist you. We have chosen just a few of the resources below that are available to help you get started.
